FROM SEER TO PROMOTER.

OCCULT PATHS LED TO THE CUBAN DEVELOPMENT COMPANY.

Now the Seer Has Departed, the Promoter Awaits Trial and Divers Women Who Put Up Good Money on Advice From the Middle Air Are Hankering to Testify.

Charles Hudson, also known to the police of some States as Hodson, once advertised in this city as Prof. Van Dyck, medium, soothsayer and dispenser of love potions, and Frank R. Sherwin, promoter, broker and financier, alleged co-workers in selling the stock of the Cuban Development Company, a corporation with a prospectus elaborately eloquent, have successfully eluded all efforts of the District Attorney's office to bring them to trial under various indictments for grand larceny in the first degree. The professor got away two years, ago, and though superseding indictments have been found against him lately, bench warrants from the Court of General Sessions have failed to find him out. Sherwin, who is still doing a little broking and promoting in this city, is under $2,500 bail. Last week Assistant District Attorney John F. Cowan endeavored to bring him to trial. The case was on the calendar before Judge Foster for several days but the defendant did not appear and the Court ordered the bail bond forfeited. On the last day of the term Sherwin and his counsel. Amos Evans, appeared and offered to go to trial. Of course the calendars of all the courts were blocked. The last indictment found against Prof. Van Dyck and Broker Sherwin was delivered by the Grand Jury a few months ago and sets forth a peculiarly interesting state of facts. The complainant, Mrs. Josephine Smith of 6 West Twenty-second street, appeared lately in the District Attorney's office and though several indictments were already pending her story was such a remarkable one that she was taken before the Grand Jury and superseding bills were found. She swears to the following:

That on May 1, 1899, she read an advertisement in the Herald that Prof. Van Dyck for the sum of $5 would put himself in a trance and then by the use of occult powers would tell of various incidents in her life, her age and incidentally her future. She called on Prof. Van Dyck, who, she found later, was variously known as Charles Hudson and Charles Hodson. She paid him $3 whereupon he lapsed into a trance. First he told her of various incidents in her life not specified in her affidavit. Then talking from his trance he startled her with the announcement that vast sums of money could be made by buying ctock in the Cuban Development Company. Here there was a break in the trance and the professor, coming to, told her that she would have to have a second "reading" as the power had about run out. She came back again, paid another 35, and he lapsed again. This time there were no preliminaries, the trance started right on with the glorious prospects of pur-chasing stock of the Cuban Development Com-chasing stock of the Cuban Development Company.

She consented to go where his occult powers would lead him and so earnest was he to take her to this fountain of wealth that he dismissed other clients who were overflowing his reception rooms waiting to have their fortunes read. Mr. Smith and her "medium thereupon set out and by divers occult and esteric arts he guided her to 40 Exchange place, the office of the Cuban Development Company. There they met Frank R. Sherwin, who said he was a director of the company. They said they would like to purchase some stock. The director said that he was sorry, but the stock was all sold. However, as a personal favor he would persuade a fellow director to allow her to purchase a block or the stock. The professor said that he wanted to get some, too, and another personal favor was promised to him. The professor finally persuaded himself to forego the purchasing of the second block and let Mrs. Smith have both for $1.500.

Mrs. Smith casually inquired into the affairs of the Cuban Development Company and Mr. Sherwin unfolded the company's prospectus. The Cuban Development Company, he said, was incorporated under the laws of the State of West Virginia. The company owned 20,000 acres in Cuba, situated at Matanasa, 100 miles from Havana, and ninety miles from Key West. The estate was near a harbor and connected with it by a railroad.

On the land were some wonderful hot mineral springs De Soto must have missed that would allow of the starting of a famous mineral springs De Soto must have mithat would allow of the starting of a fan that would allow of the surring of a famous winter resort. There were also oil veins on the land. The product of the soil which the company at that time was developing, said Mr. Sherwin, and shipping to various ports in five steamships owned by the company, consisted of various tropical fruits, sugar cane, pineapples, coffee and tobacco. The mineral springs were in a beautiful clade, and the company was paying beautiful dividends at regular intervals.

Mr. Sherwin and out the stock certificate and springs were in a beautiful clade, and the company was paying beautiful dividends at regular intervals.

Mr. Sherwin made out the stock certificate and gave Mrs. Smith a blank check on which she could draw on her bank for the $1,500. Here the professor interfered and said that he would go to the bank with her, help her draw the $1,500 and bring the money down to the office of the company and get the stock. The director, after some hesitation, consented to this, and the professor got the money and then went and got the certificate for thirty shares of stock. A month later Mrs. Smith went back to Sherwin to secure a loan on her stock. Sherwin she says, failed to recognize her, said that he had never seen her in his life before and refused to lend a cent on the stock. She then went to the professor, She found him with his furniture all packed, feady to move. He told her to come back the next day. She did, but the professor had sone.

Another indictment against Sherwin is Another indictment against Sherwin is based on the complaint of Lizzle Heaver, now Mrs Reed, of 168 East Thirty-first street. Some time in February, 1890, the complainant, who was then Miss Heaver, met Prof. Van Dyck. She does not specify how she met the professor. She simply says that in the course of conversation with him the stock of the Cuban Development Company was mentioned, and after discussing the marvellous possibilities of the invostment he decided she would like to purchase some of the stock. The professor conducted her to the offices of the company in the Lord's Court Building on Exchange place, where they met Mr. Sherwin, Prof. Van Dyck, she says, introduced himself to the director, promoter and broker as if he had never methylands and the life of the company in the Lord's Court Building on Exchange place, where they here is the life of the life the says, introduced himself to the director, promoter and broker as if he had never met him before in his life. Mr. Sherwin, as in the case where Mrs. Smith was the purchaser, said that all the stock was sold. Prof. Van Dyck said that he would like $5,000 worth. The director said that he might obtain that amount of stock for them at $100 a share. He said the stock was listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

He said the stock was listed on the New York Stock Exchange
Miss Heaver after listening to Mr. Sherwin's casual reading of the company's prospectus decided that she would like $2,000 worth of the stock, whereupon Mr. Van Dvek graciously offered to allow her $2,000 worth of the stock he had asked for. She had only a $1,000-bill with her, but her friend said that was all right. He'd give his check for $4,000 for the stock and her $1,000-bill and she could pay him the other $1,000 that night. This she said she did.

him the other $1,000 that night. This she said she did.

Her experience in realizing on the stock, the says in her affidavit, was similar to Mrs. Smith's, and after nearly a year's vain waiting for the fulfilment of promises, she called at the District Attorney's office. Another indictment against Sherwin was found on the complaint of Mrs. Annie Suss of 200 West Fighty-seventh street. Mrs. Suss bought from Sherwin $1,000 worth of Cuban Development stock in the fall of 1800.

As District Attorney Philbin has decided to break away from the usual summer rule of General Sessions, not to try bail cases, Assistant District Attorney Cowan may succeed in having the trial of Broker Sherwin put on the calendar in August.

rested -$750 Worth of Jewels Missing. Detectives McCauley and Carlon of the Gates avenue station in Brooklyn were despatched in a hurry early yesterday morning Harry Mitchell, 31 years old, and his wife, Ida Mitchell, the occupants, in a highly excited condition. The husband had a revolver in his hand and explained that he had fired it off when he discovered that there were burglars in the house. Mrs. Mitchell urged the detectives to disarm her husband at once and they did so. Inquiry developed the fact that Mitchell had aroused his wife and told her that he heard burglars operating downstairs. The shot was fired out of the window before they went down to make a search. Mrs. Mitchell found that all her jewelry, including a selltaire diamond ring valued at $400 and other articles worth $550, had disappeared from the bureau drawers in the back parlor, but that nothing else was missing. The detectives after an investigation became satisfied that there had been no robbery from the outside and that Mr Mitchell probably knew more about the disappearance of the pearls than he wished to explain. This was also Mrs Mitchell's opinion, and after some hesitation she decided to make a charge of grand larceny against her husband and he was agreeted and taken to the station Five pawn tickets for articles not included in the missing lewelry were found in his pockets and he admitted that he had once pawned the $400 ring and kept it in pawn for six months wihout his wife's knowledge When arraigned vesterday in the Myrtle avenue court he waived examination on the larceny charge and was held by Magistrate Naumer for the Grand Jury in default of $1,000 bail.
